

Seminario de la REDR sobre la participación de las partes interesadas

El primer seminario de la REDR celebrado sobre la participación de las partes interesadas reunió a 137 participantes de 26 Estados miembros para debatir acerca de la participación efectiva de los interesados en el desarrollo rural. El objetivo de esta actividad consistía en compartir experiencias y desarrollar las capacidades de trabajo en red como herramienta para ampliar la participación de las partes interesadas.

Entre los participantes había 60 interesados que trabajan sobre el terreno en los ámbitos de la agricultura, la silvicultura, la gestión sostenible de los recursos naturales y el desarrollo territorial. Estos tuvieron la oportunidad de tratar directamente con representantes de organizaciones de interesados europeas, autoridades de gestión, unidades de apoyo a la red, la DG AGRI y otras instituciones de la UE.

El seminario forma parte de un paquete de trabajo integrado que gestiona el punto de contacto de la REDR sobre la participación de las partes interesadas. Abarca numerosas actividades de la REDR, entre ellas reuniones de un grupo temático, la elaboración de un número de la Revista Rural de la UE de la REDR sobre la participación de las partes interesadas, y talleres preparatorios en el marco de la primera Asamblea de las Redes Rurales [1] y la primera reunión de RRN.

De igual modo, cabe destacar que se ha creado un grupo de la REDR en LinkedIn sobre la participación de las partes interesadas en el desarrollo rural europeo [2], donde las partes interesadas pueden continuar intercambiando información sobre este asunto.
